WE DEBUNK MYTHS ABOUT PVC

MYTH

PVC SECTIONS YELLOW AND BECOME DAMAGED

There is no evidence that PVC becomes damaged over time. Today's PVC contains titanium dioxide, which ensures full immunity to UV radiation.

MYTH

PVC WINDOWS MAY INCREASE THE RISK OF FIRE INSIDE THE BUILDING

PVC is an inherently fire resistant plastic, the only exception among the general-purpose plastics. How is that possible? The main component of PVC is salt, which is highly resistant to fire.

MYTH

PVC IS SENSITIVE TO SOLAR RADIATION, WHICH MAY CAUSE CRACKING

The truth is that cracks may form on a PVC section, however it only happens when the material used to manufacture it was processed too many times or the layer applied was too thin. At Oknoplast we use new PVC and know how to use it correctly.

MYTH

PVC CONTAINS DANGEROUS COMPOUNDS

Not really. The Norwegian Green Building Council states in its documents that PVC sections do not contain heavy metals or any other compounds harmful to health.

MYTH

PVC IS NOT STRONG ENOUGH

80% of all PVC products are used in the construction industry, which requires materials to be resistant and durable.

MYTH

PVC CANNOT BE REPROCESSED

It's not exactly the case. Laboratory tests show that PVC can be reprocessed even by conventional methods and used for manufacturing different useful products like traffic cones, garden hoses or floor mats.

MYTH

PVC CAN ONLY BE MADE OF OIL

Today's PVC is produced with 45% oil and natural gas - the rest is just common salt. However, the oil and natural gas can be replaced with renewable resources, like ethylene or ethanol, which is the objective of the PVC industry in Europe.

MYTH

PVC PRODUCTION IS HARMFUL FOR THE ENVIRONMENT

PVC is one of three types of plastic that emit the least CO₂ and consume the least energy in production. There is good potential to reduce these emissions and energy consumption even further with new technology.

MYTH

KEEPING PVC CLEAN IS HARD

Although it is important not to use bad window cleaning products (for example: a dishwashing detergent could damage the window), PVC windows are very easy to maintain. You need no sandpaper or wire brush, all you have to do is to wipe the window with a damp cloth.

MYTH

PVC DOES NOT ENSURE GOOD INSULATION

PVC windows have more than good insulation properties. Since PVC contains no organic materials, the window is resistant to rain and provides good insulation under any weather conditions.

WHY CHOOSE OKNOPLAST?

NO NEED TO LIFT IT

Still, our windows can be fully opened to the inside, so you don't need to lift them up. It's much more convenient. You just turn the handle and position the sash the way you prefer.

MICROVENTILATION

If you prefer to keep your windows closed – you can do that and still enjoy the fresh air. In-built microventilation system secures the proper air circulation.

TILTABLE WINDOWS

It's enough to tilt the window to let in some fresh air! This great feature allows you to have your window only partially open which helps save a lot of space. Since the window in this position is blocked, no one can open it from outside which protects your place from unwanted entry.

EASY TO CLEAN

Since you can swing our windows open, they're easier to clean than hung sash windows. You can conveniently access the panes from inside which is also safer!

BROAD CHOICE OF COLORS

Aesthetics matters. We make sure you have plenty options to choose from when it comes to colors. We offer panes, veneers, handles, fittings and muntins in many different hues.

NON-STANDARD SHAPES

Round, half-round, triangular or other - you choose the shape you like. We tailor windows to fit the type and architecture of the building and preferences of our customers.
